

DEAR FRIENDS,

What a truly remarkable year it has been for Utah children and families! After more than 60 years leading the way in early childhood mental health in Utah, we are pleased to have opened The Children's Center Utah's state-of-the-art children's mental health campus in West Valley City. This represents an incredible milestone, and the work we do within its walls and throughout the community will bring hope and healing to Utahns for generations.

In the coming years, we will turn our vision toward opening satellite centers in Utah County (2026), Davis/Weber Counties (2029) and Washington County (2032). When these campuses are completed, our footprint will extend to communities that are home to more than 80% of Utah's population. Our work requires thoughtful and sustained planning and investments from individuals, corporations, foundations, and state and local government. Together, we are creating a brighter future for Utah children and families, who face unprecedented mental health challenges.

Our work nurtures young children's social-emotional development and provides essential support to families, caregivers, and early childhood professionals. Every day, we work to improve the lives of children and families like Jake's, whose story and others you can read about in this report.

We hope that as you review The Children's Center Utah's work, you will feel inspired, as we do, by the bright future of children's mental health in Utah.
